In the film industry 'Something' that results in a positive result in repetition is transformed into a feeling. So this will become a new feeling about Koratala Siva? We're talking about the music in the director's movies. His first film Mirchi had a sensational song, had a life beyond the performance of the theatrical film and is heard even now. The follow-up of Srimanthudu, although not so popular, was still among the public since the film had its performance. It was a success, but certainly a step below Mirchi. Now the director's third album, Janatha Garage seems to be another step down. In short, the music in the Koratala Siva films is becoming progressively weaker. The good here and what can become a feeling in the future is that while music became weaker, the films became a greater success. Srimanthudu is currently the biggest non-Baahubali success. If the same kind of progress is made in films, it means that Janatha Garage may be the greatest of all. Would NTR Jr. fans absolutely love this to become a feeling? So all the fans out there are no bits of music and reception. Composed of super talented Devi Sri Prasad, let's see how this album ends up being. Song 1: Jayaho Janatha Analysis: The album kick starts with the song Jayaho Janatha. Probably the best song on this album, this number hits you right away. Soon from Sukhwinder Singh to Fronteiras singing to the Arabic instruments used in this song, this number has everything. Being a mounting song, this number has all the right emotions and connects to you on an emotional level with your beautiful lyrics and melodies. Song 2: Pranamam Analysis: The second song on the album is the interesting number Pranamam. What hits you right away is the very well-written letters. Shankar Mahadevan takes this number to another level with its corner and DSP gently gels instruments Indianized with western beats making this song an instant hit. This number will hit you once again that you see the beautiful visuals on the screen. Song 3: Rock on Bro Analysis: Moving on, the album continues with another energetic Rock on Bro. This number instantly reminds you of the song DSP's Bratakali from your own album Oosaravelli. But what you click on for this song is the surprising song and significant lyrics that were well intertwined with each other. This number will hit you once again that you hear it several times. Song 4: Apple Beauty Analysis: The album's fourth song is the fun Apple Beauty Beauty Beauty Beauty Beauty Beauty Beauty. Again, there is not much in terms of music, because this number has a basic beat. Ram Playyya Sastry's lyrics are quite peculiar and can impress. The animating mood of music helps a lot and makes you like this song to a certain extent. Song 5: Nee Selavadi Analysis: Continuing, the album's next song is the emotional separation number Nee Selavadi that instantly hits it. Probably, this is the best DSP job to them the last few days. The way he uses pain in heroism indulging character and extracts an emotional voice from Singer is simply incredible. Once again a mounting number, this song is one of the best of the ell. Song 6: Pakka Local Analysis: As expected, the album is summarized with a typical mass number named local pakka. As usual, Devi Sri Prasad triggers his best in such songs and gets the queen of the item numbers, Geetha Madhuri a free hand to wear his hoarse voice. The connection line reaches you instantly and will be a treat to see NTR and a top hero shake a leg in this song. Verdict: Overall, Janatha Garage is certainly the best works of Devi Sri Prasad to date. The sound and sensation of the album are quite ancient, but Devi shows its glow, going with the mood of the film and giving the right song for every situation. Jayaho Janatha, Nee Selavadi and pranamam are our choices and go well with everyone. Finally, this is an emotional album that is important to sit in the movie and will grow in you more when you hear them several times. Click here for Telugu Music Review AD: Teluguruchi - Learn ..
