How to write a school captain speech that is funny

Talking about yourself can help enhance your career, persuade a business group of your capabilities and entertain an audience. This might take the form of a minute-long elevator speech designed to tell a specific individual about your career, persuade a business group of your capabilities and entertain an audience. This might take the form of a minute-long elevator speech designed to tell a specific individual about your career, persuade a business group of your career, persuade a business group of your capabilities and entertain an audience. today. Regardless of the specific purpose of your speech, following a few techniques can help you make the most of your opportunity. You'll have your audience's attention when you start your speech, but can lose it in a hurry unless you start off strong. If you're making a long speech, be creative. Start with an anecdote that amuses, touches or informs the audience to humanize you and draw it into your story. For a short speech, get to the point quickly by saying why you're there and how your speech about yourself is relevant. It's fine to acknowledge the introduction if you got one, or thank the speakers for inviting you, but do it in a sentence or two and then get on with your speech. Audiences are looking for a path and a destination from a speaker. Sometimes, this might be chronological - taking you from childhood to the present day. Other times, there might be a different progression, such as a speech designed to tell others how you came to start your current business. Regardless of what your particular speech is intended to do, make sure each element relates to that goal. Falling off track with irrelevant anecdotes may be a fun trip down memory lane for you, but your audience expectations and needs. Determine why the audience members have come together, what they already know and what they're hoping to get out of your speech. This helps you write content that meets those needs. In general, for a business audience you want to get out of the speech - whether it's simply positive feedback or something more tangible like increased business contacts or social networking opportunities. If you're looking for the audience to react in a specific way, write your speech in a way that accentuates that message. Showing audience members something that illustrates your point can be more effective than simply telling them. Talking about signing your first business deal might draw casual interest, but holding up a pen and saying, "with this 25-cent device, I signed my name and changed my life forever" has a bigger impact. Write your speech, however, particularly if the audience can see them. If you bring up a baseball bat and wait until your conclusion to say what its significance is, your audience may spend its time wondering about that rather than focusing on your speech. J. Lyman MacInnis, author of "The Elements of Great Public Speaking," advises, "Giving an audience exactly what it expects is like passing out sleeping pills." Add some variety to your delivery and tone of voice. Ask rhetorical questions - like "what would you have done if faced with this choice?" - before answering from your experience. This engages the audience and involves members in your story. Leave your adience with your desired message by repeating your strongest points. If you're giving a long speech, go back to these core points at regular intervals to keep everyone focused on your message. Close your speech with a reminder of what you're hoping they've taken away from your speech. This could be a call to action or a reinforcement of how your personal history can impact their lives. Watch your finish. for those of you who do not know me... you dont know what you're missing out on. i've noticed a few threads re: school leadership/captaincy roles & im aware that some schools, i assume ] soo! what are some timeless one-liners that have been used in past school captain speeches that have really brought the house down?? over the years... here are the best ones i can remember. "i never did much sport for the school, as my career was cut short due to a lack of talent!!" "and now - a quote from one of the world's greatest leaders... ALBUS DUMBLEDORE..!!" & then there was another lass who spoke about her passion for constructing unflattering body suits as a career option. well AT THE TIME... they were genuine thigh-slappers, but i think it all boils down to how you say it. im thinking of going for a light-hearted Anna Coren kinda voice? & giving random audience members a transcript of my speech, indicating the appropriate times to laugh, stand up, cheer, chant etc. oh & im not asking anyone to write my speech or anything [as its already written..] but seeking inspiration that could add colour to both my speech & others'. Let's just say - you'd need to have a lot of balls [pardon the phrase] to do a Captain's speech. And LOL at Anna Coren voice. Is it even about you? - or it's simply a random speech? :S Is it even about you? - or it's simply a random speech? :S bahah! its a school captain speech! "why should I be school captain???" & u need to give some personal background info, extracurricular activities etc.. im not going to bother with that though... just impart my "vision" for the school etc... anyone got any good one-liners?? eh eh??? happy last 8 minutes of 08/08/08 I accelerate in 4u maths. I also do all sciences. So you can see i like animals. Vote 1 fur! Elise that is *cue music* edit: ps guys i have OCD, and in these last 18.8 seconds i'm going to do a little jig. -cue collective fruit and vegetable throwing AT ELISE- i like to let the school population think i undertake the challenging courses... like cafs, hospitality, pottery, needlework etc- practical things...the "cool" subjects. i think this speech might need a nautical theme... ahoy!!! my name's elise --- & TODAY... my little spiel on why i should b school captain has a nautical theme! captains. ships. the 2 work together, hand in hand. & i, hvgs... wish to be your captain my capta feedback. i am taking it on board, & may utilise it at some point throughout my career anyone else have any suggestions?? thanks Ever felt as if you're education has been in vain? Ever tasted the bitter over the sweet? Tell me, ladies and gentlemen, students; have you ever inhaled the strong scent of defeat? at the end say "now you all better vote for me... if you dont, I KNOW WHAT SCHOOL YOU GO TO!" haha Ever felt as if you're education has been in vain? Ever seen the problems of our school ignored? Ever heard the complaints of students and how in return the staff divert the complication? Ever tasted the bitter over the sweet? Tell me, ladies and gentlemen, students; have you ever inhaled the strong scent of defeat? stroke of pure genius!! you are a poet, & i hope u know it at the end say " now you all better vote for me... if you dont, I KNOW WHAT SCHOOL YOU GO TO!" haha lol!! thankyouu!! lol you are welcome haha good luck with the speech and hope you get captain we just had our speech about how cool we are so i had to rewrite my speech!" we all cracked up good luck! The two captains at our school last started like this: Elise. Always the comedian, you are. lol! these are priceless, thanks guyz!! unfortunately, costumes and hair dying is prohibited/against the law, but... i had this idea inspired by the internet... ok, so. i get up & do my nautical themed speech, & towards the end i have a line that goes something along the lines of... "it would be a great honour to be the voice of the HMAS HVGS, we shall plant.. our name-" -flicks hair over shoulder, steps down podium thing, dramatically shoves handicraft school flag with logo into jar of dirt; crowd goes wild/crazy/stands on their chairs 'o captain, my captain!', i return to podium [or whatever its called] & continue, composed. - "in soil!! & become known as the greatest ship, ever to cross the ocean of the NSW education system." how would you react to that?? im not sure about doing that coz people are either going to start laughing hysterically and saying things like "ahahah!! shes so random!! vote one elise!! hahaha!! soil!!! o captain my captain!! vote one captain elise!! haha!!" OR... the whole massive stadium could go silent, with the only sound being my jar of soil with flag flapping in the wind, & then i'd need counselling. im not sure of my chances actually getting school leader/captain but.. if i dont bore the masses, make 'em laugh & tell 'em what a great person i am.. i might get vice!! -fingers crossed- thankyouuuu!!! I'd laugh, and definitely vote for you (unless one of my best friends was also running for captain), purely on the basis that you have balls (pardon the phrase). I'm going for captain as well. I don't know about making jokes - whenever I make jokes, they're excessively lame. Although I do recall having heard a good analogy about ships- "Being a leader of the school is like being the captain of a ship. You need a good team to help you get from point A to point B" You could possibly use that as well. Although I do think it's more aimed at the SRC than anything. its good to be funny but don't overkill it and keep in mind they don't always go to plan. these were some of mine that i used for my senior mentor speech: For all of those who know me, well you obviously know who I am, but for those who don't I'm Bettina and I'm running for senior mentor. As most of you to get you to know me better. (hold giagantic book)--stuff this bit up as the cover i made kind of fell off and you could tell it was two eco books stuck together I learnt to be a polite and respectful student striving to the best of my ability. I'm a hard worker who gives everything 110%, well that's what my report says---got a couple of laughs i can't promise you a swimming pool but there has been a lot of rain lately which has created a really big puddle in the playground, you can always bring your swimmers along and have a splash around there.---also a dud maybe getting the veronicas to sing instead.--this one worked a treat i guess my speech turned out alright even though my jokes were dodgy but i still got a place as senoir mentor. "Beers for those who vote for me" "Cruisers for the ladies" /victory. Yeah~~~~~ Captain Exphate!!! (don't forget free beer for me) heyy!! after a sleepless, fitful night-- i did my speech today!! i was so nervous, with my handicraft school flag & jar of dirt... but it ended up being incredibly well received, people were constantly laughing & afterwards the head of senior school [like. oh. my. god.] congratulated me & so did 5745893742 others!! yessssss!!! successs through endeavourrr!!! anyway, if i get vice/school captain [which is unlikely coz im competing with kids who have been at the school since preschool {which is unnatural imo} & various conversations that may occur behind closed doors]... ill scan my speech, in all it's tacky and scrunched up/creased glory for the benefit of future school captain speech makers. but now i must concentrate on mathematics trials!! aaah!! thankyou everyone!!! Last edited: Aug 12, 2008 Page 2 did u actually use the "if u dont vote for me I KNOW WHAT SCHOOL YOU GO TO"? ahaha get up there and tell them how THE GAME had just been lost did u actually use the "if u dont vote for me I KNOW WHAT SCHOOL YOU GO TO"? ahaha ... maybe not.. :S BUUUT!! i reccommended it to one of my "friends" & they used it!! &everyone was like LOL!! ... maybe not.. :S BUUUT!! i recommended it to one of my "friends" & they used it!! &everyone was like LOL!! Oh, snap. I'm sure your enthusiasm will get you many votes. My speech will definitely have 10% humour and 90% formality, but I won't over do the humorous part. TRY THIS ONE ON This is another day of solemn decision in SCHOOL NAME's history and of memorable events destined to give a new course to the history of Education. The elections become a students wanted an extension of the conflict. One man, one man only, a real tyrannical democrat, through a series of infinite provocations, betraving with a supreme fraud the population of his school, wanted the election and had prepared for it day by day with diabolical obstinacy. The formidable blows that have been already inflicted on those indolent among us show how prepared are the soldiers of YOUR SCHOOL NAME HERE. I say to you, and you will understand, that it is a privilege to fight with them. Today, the your votes, with the plenitude of its forces and its moral and material resources, is a formidable instrument of just peace between the peoples. Students! Once more arise and be worthy of this historical hour! We shall win Wow. In our school you have to be Catholic to be a student leader. What a shit rule. Was something pretty much along the lines of this threaded last year?? Almost seemed identical. I just did my speech. I quoted Churchill and Obama :/ Just say "For those who don't know me, I am For all of those who do, you should feel privelaged to!" OR "I will take the s and h out of school, to make it cool" hev molly, watched ur vid a couple of times, its great, but i feel bad about copying your jokes about the koala and all, is there anything else i could use, i am not as bold as you but im pretty confident...any advice for the speech? Lol she was last online a year ago, so i doubt she's gonna reply. Just keep your confidence and wit. And don't be afraid to be just a little out there. Luckily we don't have to say speeches for our school. the best speeches satirize the boring, cliche speeches sound the same. They start with a quote, put in a couple of jokes and try ever so terribly to find the balance between inspiration and comedy... This will be no different" -"For those of you who recognize me: mum, dad, jessica alba; thank you for coming, but please wait in the car" Last edited: Aug 13, 2011 the best speeches satirize the boring, cliche speeches sound the same. They start with a quote, put in a couple of jokes and try ever so terribly to find the balance between inspiration and comedy... This will be no different" -"Good morning ladies and gentlemen. A great man once said, 'Good Morning ladies and gentlemen'... That great man was me" I love the first intro! I am so totally stealing that. School Captain badge, only cos i didnt wanna buy a new tie It worked... LIKE A MOTHER****ING BOSS I guess though with me, it was easier cos our school is fairly small, and i pretty much know everyone. so yeah... Its not popularity tho, its personality... even tho i became elected, i still kept my personality... which includes rage quitting at teachers and saying the rudest sexual innuendos But, i guess im also that guy always smiling... so hi-5 to me Here is the transcript of a good speech that i wrote with inspiration from this thread. I feel somebody should use it because a teacher said i couldn't: "Almost all of these school captain speeches sound the same. They start with a quote, put in a couple of jokes and try terribly hard to find the balance between inspiration and comedy... This will be no different" So what makes up a good captain speech? Basically ive got to get up here be serious...but not too serio my face and yours, speak for three minutes and yet say nothing. i could do a rap like captain is! But at the end of the day you want somebody who can look good in photos and say 3 sentences in a row that make... reasonable sense, don't you? But what does a school captain actually do? Stand up at assembly, repeatedly tell the school to remain standing after a dodgy rendition of the anthem, and then say in a fake voice over a loudspeaker, more than just a photo in a newsletter, I believe that a school captain should feel a sense of pride in representing there school...in representing you. A great man once said "leadership is action, not just position" my name is , thanks for listening. hey kaurnetto, the yt vid wasnt uploading... are u able to send another link or something to access this speech pls hey everyone, i have to read my school captain speech in front of all teachers in my school in two days. i don't know what to say, can someone please help me?
