The sky's the build limit when working in the diamond standard of craftsmanship games, but we aren't all bottomless wells of inspiration. Thankfully endless ideas are out there for every type of build under the square sun. Whether you're working on a modern mansion, a survivalist setup, or even treetop towers, there's a bundle of choices. When you're new, it's best to work through the basics of Minecraft house is a perfect first step that you'll always use later on. It's smaller than the large projects you'll tackle later and it will prepare you them too. With the wide variety of residences on the list, we'll show you everything from starter houses to big builds that will have you scrutinizing blueprints. With the extensive projects ahead, don't worry—the pieces you find can be remixed into something you like more. Or you can shrink them to fit. Now let's get to our gallery of masterpieces and have a tour of Minecraft house ideas so you can break ground on your next project. Minecraft survival house ideas: survival house ideas to build and takes no time at all, making it the perfect place for when you first start a survival house ideas. map. Just because you're starting out doesn't mean your base needs to look basic. (Image credit: Minecraft Today) This Minecraft Today) This Minecraft survival house by Minecraft Today (opens in new tab) is super simple, easy to build, and also has some lovely homely touches without lots of extra resources. This small base is built mostly from stone and oak, and Minecraft Today has added some lovely little touches with a small garden out front and a huge glass window so you can see who or what is approaching your new tab), a home complete with a thatched roof, cushy fireplace, and plenty of pumpkins. This cabin is on the snug side and I love the brick accents throughout the exterior of the cabin. Zaypixel's tutorial is super easy to follow and together with its soft piano score makes for a relaxing watch even if you're not planning on building. Looking for a wooden house which can be built in either survival or creative mode. This home is multilayered and a great base for spotting from afar. Minecraft house ideas (Image credit: TheMythicalSausage / Mojang) If you would like a more traditional farmhouse then TheMythicalSausage (opens in new tab)'s farm build (opens in new tab) is just for you. The allotment for farming is placed right next to the home and has an interesting round shape instead of a square. The wooden bench on the list again with their farmhouse build (opens in new tab), which is simply stunning. Instead of having the farm allotment and house separated, they have cleverly tied the two areas together in a staggered structure creating one complete build. Super easy tutorial to follow, and I highly suggest you take a look at their other videos for more beautiful builds. Minecraft house ideas treehouse ideas together in a staggered structure creating one complete build. in new tab) is one to watch for a quick and easy build. The ladder for this house is built into the trunk of the tree and there's even a little wooden veranda that you can use as a lookout. This treehouse build (opens in new tab) by Mr Mirror (opens in new tab) is built around the trunk of the tree instead of inside it, so offers a 360-degree lookout. There's also plenty of space inside for all your crafting equipment and a place to rest. (Image credit: SheepGG / Mojang) This build is not a treehouse, but I wanted to include it in our elevated homes section because SheepGG (opens in new tab)'s hanging house (opens in new tab) is gorgeous. A creative solution for the ultimate view, this hanging house is a cosy little nook, but only if you can stomach the look down. Minecraft house ideas: modern house ideas Minecraft's blocky world and this modern build definitely fits the bill. Rizzial (opens in new tab) has a bunch of slick house ideas on their Minecraft channel but this modern house build (opens in new tab) stuck out because it's slightly bigger with three whole floors. I love how angular this build is and the brick, wood, and white blocks balance each other out perfectly. Modern Minecraft houses are plush enough, but what about a modern Minecraft house on water? Knight (opens in new tab)'s modern house (opens in new tab) has been built to make it look like it's floating effortlessly on water. It's a build that definitely benefits from some of the best Minecraft shaders (opens in new tab), but it's stunning nonetheless. Minecraft house ideas: underground house ideas/Image credit: ItsMarloe / Mojang)When I think underground base (opens in new tab)'s underground base (opens in new tab) has blown my expectations away. It's not exactly inconspicuous, but it certainly has plenty of style. Another stylish Minecraft underground base is from Tanol Games (opens in new tab), who's build kind of looks like a Pokéball. The really cool thing about this base is that there's a tree at its centre, bringing some life down into the blocky, earthy depths. Minecraft house ideas: Japanese house ideas Minecraft Japanese house is that there's a tree at its centre, bringing some life down into the blocky. ideas(Image credit: BlueBits / Mojang)BlueBits (opens in new tab)' Japanese Minecraft house (opens in new tab) is one of the most elegant builds on this list. What makes this build stand out is the blue roof blocks that really make the whole project pop. If you want a delicate Japanese garden to match, you can check out the second part of the tutorial on how to build just that. BlueNerd (opens in new tab)'s Japanese Minecraft house tutorial (opens in new tab) might look like a beast at forty minutes, but it's super detailed and full of little design details worth checking out. The bamboo and lanterns really bring the whole build together. Let's face it, it's easy to conceptualize Minecraft house ideas to build, but not so much to make one from scratch. Fortunately, the internet is a vast compendium that has thousands upon thousands of cool Minecraft's best builders, I've compiled a list of 50 of the best house ideas to give you the inspiration you need to create your next Minecraft home. Say goodbye to uninspired Dirt, Cobblestone, and Log house builds, and hello to fantastic Minecraft mansion ideas and cute Minecraft houses instead. Our list is updated on a monthly basis so be sure to check back for new ideas regularly, you can see some of the older Minecraft houses instead. Leave us a comment below House with Swimming Pool If a large modern house is too ambitious of a project for you, this modest-sized House with Swimming Pool by HALNY can make for a lovely compromise. This honeycomb-shaped residence is a delightfully artistic creation that's easy to appreciate. It features three separate compartments, a quaint pink flower garden, and two-tiered fencing that screams the suburbian look. With the right shaders, you can make the pool look transparent too—which complements the design of the build quite nicely. Wooden Survival House SOURCE: One Team Excusing the rather dramatic angle, this Wooden Survival House by One Team does a wonderful job mirroring a cabin that fits a rural village theme. With a few grains of Wheat growing at your home's entrance, as well as alternating bush plants sitting below the window sill, a lot of elements work like a charm in this simple yet alluring home. And I won't forget to mention the Cobblestone and Stone Brick block placements! Gives a secure and mildly intimidating feel to the house. Modern House SOURCE: SheepGG Stepping back from going a purely cottage-core route, let me introduce to you one of the first Minecraft modern house ideas in the list - this Modern House by SheepGG. It deceptively uses normal and dark Quartz blocks to cover up the easy-to-find wooden blocks that are used extensively in this Minecraft house build. That's not to say those logs make the build look bad. It just goes to show that you can make anything look good with the right planning and placement. And the right planning mega creative. This Aquarium House by SheepGG features an expansive two-floor aquarium - filled with fish, plants, and sea life as far as the eye can see! The aquarium fits perfectly with the aesthetic of the house. The ascending front-door staircase, the lush and orderly garden plants, the remarkable contrast between black, white, and gray - all of it comes to life in this modern-looking aquarium home. Speaking of aquariums, here are other furniture piece ideas you can add to liven up your home. Modern Treehouse Instead? This Modern Treehouse by 6tenstudio merges the natural beauty of the forest landscape and the posh beauty and luxury of modern living. From hanging lamps, natural roofing, and contemporary furniture, you get the whole package with this Minecraft house build. What you may not immediately see in the picture above is the working elevator that brings you from floor. Pretty neat, if you ask me! Two-Floor Wooden House SOURCE: JUNS MAB Architecture tutorial To tell you the truth, I'm a real sucker for Skinned Log builds. It has a clean, furbished finish that scratches my minimalism itch. This Two-Floor Wooden House by JUNS MAB Architecture tutorial (yes that's the creator's name) marvelously makes use of the block in their attempt to create a humble two-floor home — and by all means, they did it right. From the outdoor second floor, the criss-cross fence at the first-floor entryway, to the well-spaced lamps, the elements of this nome just exude finesse. Suffice to say, I'm quite impressed by this one. Squid Game House On the outside, this Minecraft creation serves as a decoration to remind you of the Netflix smash hit. On the inside, well... let's just say that you can call it home. This Souid Game House by HALNY features the iconic circle, triangle, and square symbols that many deem synonymous with the series's design. While you won't be running towards robotic little girls or hopping on deadly glass bridges inside these cubic structures, you can craft the inside of this space however you want! Wooden Modern House SOURCE: SheepGG This Wooden Modern House by SheepGG shows a boxy design that crosses modern and cabin vibes. Peer inside, and you see each room decorated with various wildflowers and plants - divided neatly per room. You get a glimpse of the plant haven just from looking at the exterior too. With just wooden blocks and plant life, this is one of the more interesting Minecraft modern house SOURCE: Spudetti Greatness isn't limited to soaring high castles or imposing towers that loom the skies. A flat, one-floor build can be just as spectacular too - as seen in the glorious Underground House by Spudetti. Divided into four equal spaces, this circular fortress built entirely underground switches things up from the usual two-story home Minecraft builds. As seen from the sky, the symmetrical circular marvel is a sight to behold. And we can just imagine how good it looks to stare at the sky at night from down there. Modern Villa House by Akila Gaming This outdoor kitchen area, a bamboo garden, heck, even a jacuzzi. It's the sort of place where anyone can easily find themselves saying, "Hey, I want one of that." With a predominantly white Quartz exterior with black outline edges, this modern villa encapsulates sleekness to the core. Definitely not something just anyone could think of in a whim, I'm sure. Beach House SOURCE: Zaypixel If there's one thing I love more than owning cute Minecraft houses, it's taking a good dip at the beach. With this Beach House by Zaypixel, my dream of recuperating on a beach is fulfilled.....is what I would like to say if those wishes weren't wasn't locked behind a video game. But you know what, it's a start. In all seriousness, this is one of those house designs Minecraft that makes for a good tropical build, if you so happen to spawn by the open waters. Do some research, install some good mods, and it won't be hard to feel in awe of the sea with this Underwater Modern House by Random Steve Guy. Glass-paned, top-to-bottom windowed walls surrounding all floors allow you to see past the submerged home and deep into the coean floor. And if you want to take a look outside, climb to the top floor and get a glorious view of ocean waves on all four corners of your home. I'd imagine only the boldest of us would be brave enough for this build - imagine staying here at night with no island at sight. Shudders! Modern City House SOURCE: JINTUBE Instead of minimalist cabins or fantasy-themed builds, there are more ways to get funky with your Minecraft home. This Modern City House by JINTUBE injects a modern flair into the world complete with well-laid-out furniture, potted foliage, hedges, a pool, and two floors of contemporary goodness. Its estate-like qualities can be attributed to the good use of spacing and white walls thanks to the Concrete blocks. If you're planning to build a city, this is one of those Minecraft house ideas that are sure to give you some inspiration. Oak Survival House SOURCE: SheepGG Back to wooden builds, this Oak Survival House by SheepGG is a classic contender for a vacation home you wish your friends had in the middle of the woods where you could go on summer sleepovers. With various sets of staircases connecting different parts of the house, to the stilts and hedges, this is one of those majestic Minecraft house designs that doesn't take too many resources to build. All you need are wooden planks and things made out of those planks. Lots of them. Read about Skyblock in Minecraft. Pirate Base House by DiddiHD might be something worth considering. Built on top of seawater (or at least, close to it), this home looks like a pirate ship from afar. No other home resembles a shape like it, making it worth testing if you want to stand out. It even has a black flag hung at the top of the build. With Wooden Planks, Panels, and other decorative blocks, this is one of the best Minecraft house ideas that are menacing enough to get any other players' timbers shivered. Modern House SOURCE: Detsnow is a perfect example of how simple ideas executed well can still look great. This Minecraft house design gives a very clean, contemporary look to it — without a ton of extravagant embellishments or designs. The home itself feels like a simple yet cozy abode one could come back to after a long day of exploring. Take a dip in the outdoor lounge - either way, you're sure to feel rested in one of the cleanest Minecraft house designs you'll ever see. Luxury Modern House SOURCE: OSHACRA When someone mentions a house party, this is a home that'll guarantee guests a good time. I mean, c'mon, just look at it! This house looks like a place you can rock in with your friends for game night. A continuation of luxurious Minecraft mansions, this Luxury Modern House by OSHACRA is quite the eye candy to behold. A cozy pool area, a spotless marble walkway, and a warm-toned, second-floor interior are some of the parts that make up this establishment. And, with no surprise, they all harmoniously fit together into one fine-looking mansion. Read up on cute Minecraft texture packs to use in your next world. Water Modern House SOURCE: Random Steve Guy We all think of Log planks and cool plants when it comes to designing builds - but have you considered making water an integral part of your Minecraft home? This Water Modern House by Random Steve Guy has a design that hinges on water. Upon entering the place, you must hop across elevated platforms to make it through the house. (Otherwise, you'd get wet!) The house design is simplistic and flat, but it does give off a handsome visage with its sleek black and white wall color combinations. Treehouse House by Typface lets you relish that dream with a 360° vista of the surrounding woodland. The woodwork is wonderful, the roofing is thematic, and the high level gives you the perfect height to look down at all those pesky mobs who think they can get one over you! This treehouse could be the perfect height to look down at all those pesky mobs who think they can get one over you! This treehouse could be the perfect height to look down at all those pesky mobs who think they can get one over you! This treehouse could be the perfect height to look down at all those pesky mobs who think they can get one over you! This treehouse could be the perfect height to look down at all those pesky mobs who think they can get one over you! House SOURCE: SheepGG This Survival House by SheepGG offers an interesting, cozy take on a flat survival home in Minecraft. It takes a lot of creativity and minimalism to make good use of such little space and make it look good too. And lo and behold, this design manages to do just that! It features Stone Slabs, Skinned Wood, Glass Panes, some Tree Leaves, and the first-day essentials to get you prepared for your next adventure. As for me, I'd stay in a place like this or at least convert it into a storage area. Epic Modern House by LubovLC features a two-floor structure with a twist. Violet-styled walls and a wooden wall design with stripes at the corner offer a little more creativity compared to the other modern homes featured in the list. A lawn complete with a garden and sun lounge makes the deal so much sweeter too if you have to ask me. The quintessential white wall provides a striking contrast against the dominant lush backdrop of the forest, which is quite nice to see. Smallest Modern House SOURCE: Random Steve Guy is so small it can practically match the size of a dirt hut! The pride and joy of this house is the fact that it's built with just Quartz blocks and a few decorative elements. Nothing but the essentials to keep those mobs out at night. Despite its miniature stature, it still doesn't fail to look like a star. If you want to test out the extremities of eye-catching design, owning the smallest house is an eyebrow-raiser for sure, especially in PVP mode. a house on the mountain that still manages to look good as Minecraft house ideas? This Mountain House by JUNS MAB Architecture tutorial is arguably one of the great outdoors. The view looking at the interior looks stunning too, from well-lit ceilings and a couple of cabin furniture pieces to spruce up the place. Whether you're playing on Minecraft 1.18 or some other version, replicating this unique take on a variety of mountain Vine House by Zaypixel is another brilliant design that makes use of Minecraft's procedurally generated mountains. The use of vines and wooden planks around the place give it a hauntingly beautiful ambiance befitting of a home found deep in the face of a mountain range. The patch of wheat fields work beautiful ambiance befitting of a home found the place give it a hauntingly beautiful ambiance befitting of a home found deep in the face of a mountain range. sight even when they're inside their abode. Truly one of the cooler Minecraft house ideas that make me want to take plenty of pictures! Japanese House by BlueBits perfectly recreates a home that looks like it's been transported straight from the heartland and into the digital world of Minecraft. From the well-fitting foliage to the Japanese-style light sources, this Minecraft build inspiration is one that's surely going to be a lot of fun boasting about. Modern Mansion House SOURCE: Random Steve Guy Building on flat land? Pssh, been there, done that. Building on the side of a cliff that looks terribly close to toppling over? Now you're speaking my language. If you like to live life on the edge (pun absolutely intended), this Modern Mansion House by Random Steve Guy is one of those Minecraft house ideas you'd enjoy recreating. It utilizes concrete blocks and a few black inner blocks. It's generally small too, but nothing's stopping you from putting your own creative spin on one of the most thrilling Minecraft modern house ideas. Large Japanese House by BlueNerd Minecraft is one that looks beautiful under the orange, autumn colors. On its own, it also looks strikingly similar to the quiet temples you can find scattered across East Asia. It's quite hidden too. This makes it perfect for players looking to stay under the radar and enjoy the simplicity of life without distractions! Underwater Mountain Houses SOURCE: Zaypixel We've featured mountain houses. We've featured underwater houses. Here's an idea that brings to you the best of both worlds: this Underwater Mountain House by Zaypixel. Similar to a mountain house previously shown, this build idea is a fun way to make a super-secret lair or a cozy viewing deck. You can watch fish swim or drive off Drowned from knocking over your windows. Your choice! Waterfall Modern House by Random Steve Guy With the right Minecraft shaders, you can make almost all Minecraft shaders by Random Steve Guy. This design is a cube-like structure with water falling on the exterior walls, leaving behind a dark blue stream in its path. It's enclosed in a neat Quartz block outer wall as well. While the build looks like it's floating mid-air (or jutting out of the cliff), you can recreate this build on the ground or designated spaces as you see fit. Spruce House SOURCE: Reimiho This Spruce House by Reimiho is a spacious compound with a healthy dose of old-fashioned vibes. From its Spruce wooden slabs to its Cobblestone rooftop, this design is easily replicable as long as you have the right materials. Of course, if you're not a fan of Spruce, you can always go ahead and replace them with your personal preference like Acacia or Oak instead! Leatherworker Desert House SOURCE: BlueBits Sometimes, we spawn in the dense brush with trees and streams nearby. Other times, the middle of a desert is our spawning point. This Leatherworker Desert House by BlueBits considers the latter. It's a simple design built with Wooden fences, Sandstone, and Acacia Planks, but these parts can be replaceable depending on what's available. In a desert, having the orange of the Acacia provide contrast against the pale yellow sand is an inviting and sophisticated touch. Sure beats staying under the heat of the sun all day. Modern Pink House SOURCE: Kam The Builder If you're tired of this shuffling between Quartz blocks and wooden planks, you're in luck. This Modern Pink House by Kam The Builder is a modern home with a dash of the cutest and most rosy color anyone can go for. This design can be created in 1.18 with Pink Concrete blocks. You can go ahead and replace them with your preferred Concrete color type (assuming you have the right materials), but we're sure most of us would agree that this design is a gorgeous one. Modern Blue House SOURCE: LubovLC shows an impressive intersecting blue square design and a cozy pool for good old R&R. The simple yet effective mix of blue and white definitely makes this design pop out. It also helps some various decorative elements like the chairs and poolside tables help bring out the best in this Minecraft design. For those looking for more Minecraft design.
