The Apparition
When by thy scorn, O murdress, I am dead
And in these arms will from thee shrink;
And thou art free; and I am writh, neglected thou
Dost in a cold quietness sweat will lie.
A verie ghost then I,
What I will say, will not tell thee now,
Lest that preserve thee; and since my love is spent,
Thad rather thou shouldest painfully repent.

Than by my threatening rest still innocent.
